CITY SCHOOL ROW AIRING IS PROMISED

Developments Today Indicate Factions in Dispute Will Put Views Before Public On Reorganization Plan

Norman Metcalf and Director Harry Boyle Central Figures in Controversy Over Draining System Into Units

Affairs of the Oakland Board of Education are to be aired in various places this week, according to plan of the opponents and proponents of the proposed "reorganization scheme" advanced recently by members of the board.

Developments in the case up to the present are as follows:

1—Norman Metcalf, president of a uncharitable club, is cited to appear tomorrow morning in Prosecuting Attorney William Hennessey's office to show cause why he should not be arrested for slander in complaint of Harry Boyle, president of the Board of Education.

2—Issuance of a statement by Metcalf in which he charges that the Board of Education is attempting to start the "investigation" by throwing the public off the track in securing a citation for him.

Information was also made by Metcalf that the grand jury would be asked to look into the matter.

3—Meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association last night at which it was decided to disregard the announced policy of "no politics" and take a hand in the affair.

—Decision of the association to call a mass meeting at the T. V. C. A. for next Saturday evening at which time speakers for the Board of Education and for the opponents will be invited to discuss the reorganization scheme.

ISSUE FORCED.

CLAIMS METCALF.

In bringing before the public their charges of slander, members of the board of education have achieved a tactical victory of no mean political importance, according to Metcalf. He asserted that the action of School Directors Boyle and Campbell forced his hand and brought this issue to the open before the public and his colleagues were fully ready to "start something."

"If the situation had not been issued," says Metcalf, "we would have been ready to complete our investigation of the school department, in about a week or so. We would have been ready to shoot. Now they've made us go off at half cock."

"It's not me personally that's interested so much. I'm only a mouthpiece, one of many business men who have been conducting a quiet and thorough investigation of this school mess, for the good of the citizens of Oakland. Now that they've started this, maybe we can finish them anyhow. I have in mind, for instance, one man whose testimony would be interesting before a grand jury."

ATTACK ON BOARD AIMED.

"In the speech before the United Commercial Travelers I did not attack the board of education, but only the public education advisory committee. Bear this in mind. There is a difference."

"What I talked on was that the board of education, acting on the suggestion of fifteen unusual persons, mainly known to Oakland except for J. C. Dowdy and F. F. Porter, has started an endeavor to break the school organization into three departments, depriving the superintendent of schools of his powers.

"I have letters from big educators all over the country, Columbia University included, in which they say that this splitting of authority is against the best ideas of education and precludes the best results.

"The request of the board members to Prosecutors Henklein for a citation against me was clever. I am wondering if the board members thought it up themselves. It tipped our hand. It came just when we were going well. But I believe we can do something anyhow."

CLAIM TALK WAS SLANDER.

Members of the majority of the board of education, on the other hand, express indignation at the "unjustifiable allegations" brought up in the Metcalf speech. They assert that the Metcalf talk was "slander."

"There seems to be a reprehensible feeling in the city that men in public life are not entitled to crooks or grifters," says Commissioner W. H. Moore.

"I do not believe so at all. Some of our finest citizens have been in public life. It is too bad that a feeling of doubt of the honesty and integrity of public officials should permeate the populace, but this seems to be the situation. I am sorry for it. This board of education is striving in every way to perform the functions for which it was elected by the people."

Chairman Harry Boyle says he will be on hand with Director Fred Campbell of the board of education to bring the charges of slander before Prosecutors Henklein at 10:30 tomorrow morning. Metcalf says that he will not appear in Hennessey's office without the attendance of his attorney, H. S. Henlein, to guard his rights.

The Oakland Parent-Teachers' association will hold a mass meeting Saturday night at the Y. W. C. A. building to investigate the school board situation.

This action was decided upon to-day following the application for a warrant for the arrest of Norman Metcalf on charges of slander preferred by Harry Boyle, president of the school board.

The application was denied.

The application for the warrant was made after Metcalf had delivered a speech at the United Commercial Travelers' luncheon in which he is

WOMAN DIES AFTER BEING HIT BY AUTO

Mrs. Rose Marino Is Run Down at Grove and 54th Streets and Expires Soon; Fire Chief's Son Is Killed

Six Persons Are Injured and Four Shaken Up During Two Early Collisions in S. F.; Drunkenness Charged

Mrs. Rose Marino, 37, was run down today by an automobile at Grove and Fifty-fourth streets, suffering injuries which caused her death ten minutes later at the Temple hospital in Berkeley.

The automobile was driven by J. L. Payne, an automobile repair shop proprietor residing at 819 Folger avenue, Berkeley. He said the tragedy was unavoidable. He picked up Mrs. Marino after striking her and took her to the Temple hospital, where she died without regaining consciousness. She resided at 665 Fifty-second street.

Mrs. Marino lived at 665 Fifty-seventh street. According to Payne's story to the police, Mrs. Marino stepped from behind a telephone pole directly in the path of his machine. He said that he was traveling about eight miles an hour at the time.

Special Despatch to TRIBUNE.

BYRON, Feb. 22.—Elmer Vogt, son of John V. Vogt, fire chief of Tracy, is dead, and F. F. Blocking is suffering from a fractured skull following an auto accident that occurred on the Marsh Creek road early today.

L. R. Ross, who was also in the machine, jumped and escaped with a few cuts.

It is believed that the car struck a rock and turned over while rounding the curve known as "Cape Horn."

The accident happened while the men were returning from Clayton, where they had been visiting at the home of Blocking's parents.

CAR FALLS 150 FEET INTO MARSH GREEK.

The car fell 150 feet into Marsh creek, nine miles out of Byron. Vogt was instantly killed. Blocking was driving the car.

Vogt was employed in the Shell Oil Company station at Byron. His companions are also employed at that station.

DR. HAMMOND AND A CONSTABLE WERE SUMMONED AND BLOCKING WAS TAKEN TO MARTINSON HOSPITAL IN AN AMBULANCE. VOGT'S BODY WILL, IT IS EXPECTED, BE TAKEN TO BRENTWOOD AND LATER REMOVED TO TRACY.

Vogt's funeral will be held Saturday at 2:30 p. m., under the auspices of the Native Sons.

Vogt was a member of that order. He also belonged to the Athletic and Social clubs. During the war Vogt served in the United States navy.

He is survived by his father, John Vogt, and two brothers, Leslie and Raymond.

James Sullivan, Twenty-first and Harrison, possibly fractured skull.

R. J. Ryan, 3278 Twentieth street, cut and gashed.

Fred Summers, 1817 Pine, possible fractured skull.

Miss Alice Oliver, 1035 York.

Julius Fane, 365 Thirtieth street.

James Campbell, 219 Twenty-second avenue.

THREE ARRESTED FOLLOWING CRASH.

William O'Connell, an employee of the San Francisco Savings and Loan Society, was driving a machine in company with Summers and Hanb when he collided with another car at Columbus avenue and Bay street. His machine was thrown against a telephone pole and all three men hurled out. Mrs. Alice Ariolla, who lives nearby, attracted by the cries of the injured, summoned a machine and had them conveyed to the Harbor hospital. The car which collided with them did not stop and the police are searching for the driver, including O'Connell for driving an automobile while intoxicated and tools Summers and Hanb into custody on misdemeanor charges.

"Well, Joe," I insisted, "set a price on them, let me fix it, and the whole thing is over."

"No one can beat me out of a steakh," the restaurant man replied. "No man can call me a foolie at sick cows and a profit."

He wave his hands so profusely.

To charge me for the disputed steak struck him as wrong, and he waved and blushed while we pressed him close.

FIGHT LOOMS ON TAXES TO RAISE BONUS

Preliminary Discussion in the House Committee Shows a Lively Scrap Ahead on the Manufacturers' Sales Plan

Senator Lodge to Appeal to President in An Effort to Stave Off Reservations to Four-Power Pacific Pact

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—The House soldiers' bonus tax committee got nowhere today at its first session to discuss ways and means of financing the bonus. Several members were absent and it finally was decided to put the whole question over until later.

Preliminary discussion, held in closed doors, was said to have indicated that there would be a lively scrap before a manufacturers' sales tax was reported out. There appeared to be little doubt, however, that the committee would recommend that form of levy.

The first real fight by opponents will be launched when the ways and means committee considers the recommendation.

SEEK SEPARATE VOTE ON TAX FEATURE.

If they lose there, opponents say they will center next on the rules committee. Chairman Campbell would not discuss in advance any possible action by that committee, but in some quarters it was said to be extremely doubtful that the committee would report out any rule for the passage of the bonus bill with a sales tax attached without providing for a separate vote on the tax feature.

The form of sales levy now before the committee would provide for a general tax on manufacturers or wholesalers with exemptions in the case, possibly of most farm products. Proponents of a sales levy said this was preferable to a plan defining specific subjects that would bear the charge.

SENATOR FRANCIS, REPUBLICAN, MARYLAND, spoke in the Senate today in opposition to enactment of soldier bonus legislation at this time, and outlined methods by which he said the country might be able to later meet the bonus problems.

PROPOSALS MADE BY SENATOR FRANCIS.

Among Francis' proposals were: cancellation of the allied debts in exchange for grants to America of the former German colonies; cables taken by the allies; restoration of commerce; and friendly relations with Russia; negotiation of a treaty for the development of Africa's resources and reduction of German reparations.

Francis illustrated his address with numerous large maps hung on the senate wall.

THE MARYLAND senator said he favored a program because he was convinced it would be unwise and dangerous for us to attempt to put a further strain upon our financial system by attempting to pay a cash bonus of from three to five billions of dollars before attempting to find a solution for the problem of our agricultural, industrial, commercial and financial depression, now a cause of deep concern.

LODGE MOVES TO STAVE OFF TREATY RESERVATION.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—Senator Lodge will appeal to President Harding in an effort to stave off adoption of reservations to the four-power Pacific treaty.

Lodge today prevented a vote by the foreign relations committee on the Bradgate reservation by announcing that he wanted to discuss reservations with Harding. Lodge has arranged to see Harding Thursday.

When Lodge called up the ratification treaty in the Senate today Senator France of Maryland moved to recommit it to the foreign relations committee. The motion was ruled out of order. France later said he would not at once renew it "because there are not enough Senators here now who would vote for it." But later on he said, he would make the motion and predict it would easily pass.

He said he would vote for it.

DISASTERS MUST NOT BLOCK AERO WORK, SAYS KAHN

Men Who Perished Would Not Want Nation to Fall Behind, He Thinks.

By LAURENCE M. BENEDICT, United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22.—A strong demand that all appropriations for army and navy dirigibles be stopped at once arose in congress today as the result of the Roma disaster at Norfolk yesterday, which took a toll of 34 lives.

Because of the destruction of the big army ship yesterday, the explosion of the ZR-2 over Hull, England, last August, with the loss of sixty-two lives, and the loss of several smaller craft in recent years, congressional leaders in close touch with army and navy affairs believe it unwise to spend large sums of money and risk scores of lives in developing the airship. Representative Kahn said, "with the terrible loss of life, it is a terrible shock to all those interested in aerial navigation. The Roma was the

VICTIMS ON ROMA HADN'T A CHANCE, EVIDENCE SHOWS

Majority Trapped Underneath Bag; Corpses in First Great Crash

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON, International News Service Correspondent.

ARMY BASE, Hampton Roads, Va., Feb. 22.—One of the maze of counter stories it was apparent today that the crew and passengers of the Roma for the most part "never had a chance to escape." Trapped beneath the falling envelope of the bag, they were blasted into blackened, shriveled corpses in the first great crash.

The handful who escaped either down from the Roma just before the crash or else landed in deep gullies that cross the field on which the Roma fell. These gullies provided protection from the blast for a few moments.

The bodies of the dead, most of them charred beyond hope of recognition, lay in a tiny morass at Hampton Roads.

Four great men and many boys were buried in the ground near the wreckage.

Representative Kahn said the world probably will continue air flights notwithstanding the disaster and adds:

Searching Investigation Of Roma Tragedy Starts

"accident," said Captain Walter J. Burt, chief pilot of the ill-fated airship. "I doubt if it will ever be known. Of course, we have our own theories, but we are not certain which is correct."

"I had known that there was trouble with the control of the ship, and it was impossible to correct it after we had started," he said.

"The first intimation we had that there was trouble was when we saw the nose of the ship down. We went back to see what caused it and found the control was not working."

"Everything possible was done to straighten the ship and get her on an even keel again. Captain Mabry gave orders to shut off all motors. The last four were shut off. The forward engine was still running. It is possible that the engineer was so thrown out of his position that he could not see the signals on the dial."

EFFORTS TO RESTORE AN EVEN KEEL FUTILE.

"Every effort to get the Roma on an even keel proved useless and she pitched into the ground in a nose dive and turned over on her side."

"When the ship hit I was thrown into the upper part of the cabin. I was shut in and got out only when a hole was burned in the cabin. Lieutenant Welch crawled out with me. Both of us had to go through flames to get to safety."

The three investigations into the crash are being conducted by Major-General Patrick, chief of the army air service, who came from Washington by airplane; by Lieutenant-Colonel Arthur G. Fisher, acting commander at the flying field, who ordered the Roma "up" on its last flight, and by Major E. L. Kennedy, commanding coast officer, who is the army "coroner."

Major Kennedy announced today he would swear in a jury and hold an inquest over the bodies either late today or tomorrow. He will determine responsibility for the accident for the military authorities.

PARACHUTE LEAP FATAL.

All the victims but one perished in a blazing inferno. The exception was Lieutenant William E. Riley of New York. He leaped from the bag with a parachute just before the crash.

The parachute failed to open and Riley crashed headlong into the concrete floor. His head was smashed.

Only two of the eight injured now held at the army hospital here are in danger of dying from their burns. These are Charles Dworack of Dayton, O., and Sergeant Harry A. Chapman of St. Joseph, Mo. The others, physicians said, will recover, while both Dworack and Chapman have a "fighting chance."

There is some conflict among observers as to whether there was smoke aboard the aircraft before the crash. All army men deny it and they are borne out by most of the survivors.

Captain Walter J. Reed of Scarsdale, N. Y., one of the survivors, however, declared there was a cry of fire just before the crash.

"I felt ill," Reed said today from his hospital cot, "and went forward to lie down. In a little while I heard a cry of 'Fire aft!' and ran back through the runway. I saw a mass of flames. They were panic-stricken. I saw no flames, however. I got to one side and just as the bag struck I leaped. I don't know how I escaped—it seemed a miracle."

LACK OF KNIVES.

Major John D. Reardon of Dayton, another survivor, denied that there was any fire prior to the crash. He declared he was trapped inside the after cabin and waited until the flames burned a hole in the canvas sides before he crawled through to freedom.

"One of the contributing causes for many deaths was the lack of knives," Reardon said. "We couldn't find any knives to cut our way out of the bag. Some of the other boys just waited there to die."

Army officials today were placing much stress on the statements of several survivors that one of the big Liberty motors "went dead" shortly after the start of the flight. This motor, situated in the front of the vessel, it was stated, contributed to the "head pull," which forced the nose of the Roma downward to such an extent that the controls broke. This cause was being closely investigated.

THEORY AS TO HOW TRAGEDY HAPPENED.

The consensus of opinion is that Captain D. L. Mabry, commander of the Roma, in making the turn over the army base failed to allow the army band to play. The band, under the unusual strain, jammed into the controls. This occurred at a height estimated at 650 feet.

The Roma's nose pointed down, and the ship went to destruction.

Several days of investigation indicated that the crew would be exonerated and the cause of the crash reported as "unknown."

Failure of Controls, Army's Explanation

LANGLEY FIELD, Va., Feb. 22.—(International News Service)—The official army explanation today blamed the crash of the semi-rigid dirigible Roma on the failure of "controls to function." Lieutenant Colonel Arthur G. Fisher, acting commander of the air base, made the following announcement:

"The cause of the crash of the Roma was due to failure of the controls to function. The trouble developed at an altitude of 600 feet and pilots of the ship were unable to prevent its descent. The bag caught fire, following an explosion caused by contact with a 2500-volt transit line. The large number of casualties were due to the explosion and resultant fire. Otherwise a much larger number would have escaped serious injury."

"What's the idea, Nancy? Why all the yellow linen luncheon sets? Didn't you know we're domestically inclined. Have you gone and got engaged, too? What is it?"

"I'm not engaged," said Nancy, blushing. "I saw a bargain in this lovely linen and I didn't feel like buying it for my hope chest. And I was going to buy a hat with that money, too. I do need some clothes, but see so many pretty things that I want to embroider I can't help buying them."

"Say, do you mind telling me what you want a full hope chest for, if you go around looking shabby yourself? I never did see a man who was blind to pretty clothes. You had better can that hope chest idea for a while and get yourself that pretty hat and coat you want."

"Oh, I can't now. I have spent so much money on other things I don't see how I can get clothes now."

"I'll tell you how. Go to Cherry's at 515 13th street and make a small payment if you can, otherwise it will not be necessary for 30 days, and then pay the rest every month. But do get some clothes. What's a hope chest without a man?"

Eisteddfod Opens
At Plymouth Center

The Eisteddfod, the annual musical and literary event of the Welsh people, was held this afternoon and evening at Plymouth Center, Piedmont and Yosemite avenues.

The first session started at 2 o'clock this afternoon and was served between the afternoon and evening sessions at 7 p.m.

Many contestants have entered in both the musical and literary contests, of which the choral singing is proving the most popular. Professor Festyn Davies, well-known tenor, is acting as the adjudicator in all of the musical contests.

The Eisteddfod is given under the auspices of the Welsh Presbyterian church, of which Rev. O. R. Williams is the pastor.

This evening the subject will be the much discussed subject of "The Modern Dance." This is to be featured as a special young people's night. Thursday night is to be "Family night," and at this service Rev. Nygren will speak on "2000 Hog-Power of Devils." Friday night is to be featured as Boosters' night, and at this service the speaker will give "A Word Picture of Jesus."

A special program has been arranged for Sunday, when the campaign will start on its third week.

LOSS OF APPETITE

Pimples, Boils, Eruptions, etc.—Mental and Physical Weakness, Are all very prevalent just now, and are positive proof that the blood is wanting in the power to defend the body against contagious and infectious diseases. Student Seeks $600 For Burned Glider

BERKELEY, Feb. 22.—Damages amounting to $600 are asked of the city of Berkeley by Ruth Moore, a student at the university, as the result of the burning of a glider used by him in experimental purposes by a crew of men engaged in street work last summer. The glider, according to Hagopian, was "parked" near his home in Thousand Oaks when the street gang, he says, destroyed it while burning weeds. Councilman George Schmidt declares that the machine was burned through Hagopian's negligence and that the city is not liable for damages.

GREGG QUITS AS GARDEN EXPERT FOR BERKELEY

BERKELEY, Feb. 22.—Free service which Professor John W. Gregg, head of the department of landscape gardening at the university, has given to the city of Berkeley in the past will not be forthcoming in the future.

Professor Gregg in a letter to the board of education yesterday resigned his position as consultant landscape architect of the school department, explaining that he had become a member of the American Society of Landscape Architects, which has definite rulings against members serving without compensation.

That he could still serve in an advisory capacity as president of Berkeley's park commission and will not resign that office was the professor's statement. His work in the future, he decided, would not be that of an adviser.

All of the landscape gardening features of Berkeley's new schools have been planned by Professor Gregg and a vote of thanks for his services was given by the board yesterday.

Stadium Plans Strike New Snag

BERKELEY, Feb. 22.—New difficulties are confronting stadium builders at the university with the organization of a concerted campaign by property owners bordering Strawberry canyon against the building of the proposed bowl in the vicinity of their homes.

Professor Chasney W. Wells of the university's English department urges that the university follow the lead of Yale and place its stadium a mile or two from the campus.

The stadium cannot be placed anywhere on our present campus," said Professor Wells, "without marinating its beauty. If placed west of Elring hall, it will hurt the agricultural group of buildings. If placed in Strawberry canyon, it will obliterate the botanical gardens and spoil the park-like character of the canyon, which should be preserved at all costs. And a stadium built in either place will devote the entire sum available to a structure which only forty or fifty men can use for athletic purposes. The rest must use it as spectators, if they use it at all."

RUSS REFUSAL TO PAY TEXTILE BILL ANGERS BRITISH

Ambassador to London Purchased Goods, Refused to Pay, Declared.

How the Soviet government of Russia is at present being grilled in the law courts of London for the refusal of its special ambassador, Krassin, to pay a bill for 100,000 pounds sterling worth of textile goods supplied by a British firm, was told yesterday at the Hotel St. Francis, by C. H. Hodgson, textile manufacturer of Bradford, England.

Hodgson, who is en route to Japan with two other directors of his corporation, said:

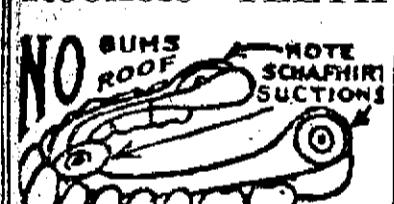

"Krassin, the Russian ambassador to London, bought 100,000 pounds of yarns from the English Textile Mills of Bradford. These goods were duly delivered in Russia, and then proved impossible to obtain payment from Krassin. At last, after every other mode of persuasion had failed, Krassin was brought into court. He brazenly admitted the debt, but made the unique defense that he could not be sued for its payment, since he enjoyed extraterritorial rights in his capacity as ambassador. The matter is now being brought before the highest courts, and it is expected that Krassin will be made to pay eventually. The ambassador's plea is completely discredited." Soviet England even, with those who were originally friendly to it. One result has been that British firms now refuse to ship any goods into Russia unless they receive payment in advance, in good coin of the realm, and not in Russian promissory notes or such like. Also, Krassin is being completely ostracized by society, though official relations are still maintained with him.

PROPAGANDA SPREAD. "Though the Russian government has bound itself to discontinue the spread of Soviet propaganda within the British territories, it is a well-known fact that Krassin's personal effects, which, presumably, are filled with objectionable revolutionary literature, and, for this reason, also, he is 'persona non grata'."

Hodgson says that "fireworks are expected in English politics owing to the mole-like burrowings of former Premier Asquith, who is trying to undermine the strength of Lloyd George's coalition cabinet." Yet this will be an exceedingly difficult task, Hodgson says, since Lloyd George has the strongest government at his disposal that ever ruled England.

Hodgson says that the prices of yarn in England have decreased since the armistice from 30 shillings to 10 shillings per yard, and cloth is now 10 shillings per yard, instead of 50. He says that from his observations the price of men's and women's clothes in the United States is just twice that of England.

FIRM WILL PAY BONUS ON WORK ABOVE AVERAGE

CLEVELAND, Feb. 22.—A bonus system, which ultimately will affect all its factory employees has been inaugurated by a manufacturing concern here. The bonus is in addition to and entirely independent of hourly wages and differs materially from the ordinary piece work.

Only good pieces of work that pass rigid inspection qualify the workers to earn bonus. All jobs will be analyzed and classified according to the skill required of the operator, every job being assigned to one of ten bonus qualifications.

In addition to a job and bonus classification a standard table of fatigue and rest allowances, classified according to the job, is adopted—from 10 per cent to 22 per cent allowances are made for fatigue and rest, the most being applied to work which puts the greatest strain on the worker.

Government everywhere, nothing foreign receives in the Soviet capital.

Krassin, the Russian ambassador to London, bought 100,000 pounds of yarns from the English Textile Mills of Bradford. These goods were duly delivered in Russia, and then proved impossible to obtain payment from Krassin. At last, after every other mode of persuasion had failed, Krassin was brought into court. He brazenly admitted the debt, but made the unique defense that he could not be sued for its payment, since he enjoyed extraterritorial rights in his capacity as ambassador. The matter is now being brought before the highest courts, and it is expected that Krassin will be made to pay eventually. The ambassador's plea is completely discredited." Soviet England even, with those who were originally friendly to it. One result has been that British firms now refuse to ship any goods into Russia unless they receive payment in advance, in good coin of the realm, and not in Russian promissory notes or such like. Also, Krassin is being completely ostracized by society, though official relations are still maintained with him.

PROPAGANDA SPREAD. "Though the Russian government has bound itself to discontinue the spread of Soviet propaganda within the British territories, it is a well-known fact that Krassin's personal effects, which, presumably, are filled with objectionable revolutionary literature, and, for this reason, also, he is 'persona non grata'."

Hodgson says that "fireworks are expected in English politics owing to the mole-like burrowings of former Premier Asquith, who is trying to undermine the strength of Lloyd George's coalition cabinet." Yet this will be an exceedingly difficult task, Hodgson says, since Lloyd George has the strongest government at his disposal that ever ruled England.

Hodgson says that the prices of yarn in England have decreased since the armistice from 30 shillings to 10 shillings per yard, and cloth is now 10 shillings per yard, instead of 50. He says that from his observations the price of men's and women's clothes in the United States is just twice that of England.

KLANSMEN PAY SURPRISE VISIT AT BURIAL RITE

DENVER, Feb. 22.—Five white-robed and hooded members of the Ku Klux Klan appeared suddenly at the funeral of Dr. Charles E. Locke at Fairmount cemetery, placed a floral offering on the grave and disappeared.

Participants were unable to say where the five figures came from or, in just what manner they "lost" themselves after paying their respects. They appeared, left their offering and disappeared in less than a minute, spectators said.

A letter, reading thus, "Denver, Colo., Khan No. 1, Knights of the Ku Klux Klan," was mailed to Denver newspapers, stating that although Dr. Locke was not a member of the organization, they desired to honor him as a "real American."

A COMPETENT COMMISSION.

If President Harding had searched the country over he could hardly have found five men better equipped to constitute the foreign debt refunding commission created by the recent Act of Congress delegating powers to the government to negotiate refunding agreements with the several European powers that were granted credits during and immediately after the recent war.

Three of the members are members of the President's cabinet. They are Secretary of State Hughes, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Secretary of Commerce Hoover. The other two are Senator Reed Smoot of Utah and Representative Theodore Burton of Ohio. Senator Smoot is a recognized leading authority on financial and economic questions. Representative Burton, who formerly was a member of the Senate, is likewise a financial authority and expert on tariff matters.

The country will have explicit confidence in the ability of this commission to make a practical and equitable adjustment of the foreign debts, and it will confidently expect it to serve in the most effective manner the interests of the United States.

Ratification of the appointments to the commission will no doubt quickly be voted by the Senate, when the commission will organize and get to work. It may be expected to expedite matters as rapidly as possible. The conclusion of all the necessary refunding loan agreements should be completed by June 30.

ADMIRAL KATO'S NEW FAITH.

Before a large gathering of members and guests of the Japan Society of America in San Francisco Monday evening, Admiral Baron Kato, minister of marine in the Japanese government, gave a statesmanlike exposition of the most important achievement and its prospective result of the Washington conference. If Admiral Kato was diplomatic in his talk, it was an example of that newer diplomacy of which the recent conference was a splendid example.

For he was admirably frank in his talk. His enthusiasm was constrained, as was proper for one of his official position and who has played his role at Washington, but that he entertains a confident hope that the world soon will appreciate and applaud what was done was apparent.

As the presiding officer of the banquet, Hon. Francis B. Loomis, remarked, the program adopted by the armament limitations conference was hardest upon the naval officers of the principal powers represented. It was harder on American naval experts than others, but it usually fell with painful force upon Japan's navy builders, of which Admiral Kato is the most distinguished. Yet Admiral Kato expressed his complete agreement with the decisions of the conference when he said:

"When the naval agreements reached are put into force they will tend to minimize, if not totally obliterate, mutual suspicions. They will tend further to bring about a spirit of permanent and genuine fraternity among nations. The work accomplished may therefore be rightly considered as of an epoch-making character, marking the dawn of a new era in the progress of the world and the civilization of mankind."

It was also apparent from Admiral Kato's address that he was deeply appreciative, if not indeed grateful, for the spirit which was manifested at Washington with special regard to Japan and the United States. That spirit was one of complete exposition of the aims and aspirations of each government. In simple phrase, each government put all its cards on the table and discussed the layout in a cordial, intelligent and understanding manner. Still under the influence of this happy development in the relations of the two governments, the Japanese Minister of Marine was led to say:

"I cannot refrain in this connection, from expressing the extreme gratification which I feel and which I know you share with me that the relationships of America and Japan have been greatly clarified and improved by the work which has just been completed in Washington. I shall have the pleasure of reporting to my government and people that America and Japan understand each other better than they have for a quarter of a century.

"Never have their aims and aspirations been more sympathetically understood than at the present time. Much of the distrust and suspicion of other years has been swept away and fear has given place to mutual trust and confidence."

U. S. Tribune places special emphasis on these passages it is because for the last half dozen years it has urged continually that the only way to understanding and tranquil relations between Japan and the United States was perfect frankness, a discussion in the open of all the disputes at issue and a mutual confession of the ambitions, if any, of each nation. This was what happened at Washington. Not only did the two governments talk frankly with each other, but they spoke in the company and hearing of many on-looking nations.

All the troublesome questions in the Pacific area have not been entirely eliminated; but nearly all have been practically settled and the carrying out of the terms of the naval treaty and supplementary agreements, the observance in letter and spirit by all nations of the several undertakings regarding China and Siberia, will definitely remove them completely.

Japan sent to this country, as we have before observed, distinguished and able citizens to represent her. These delegates, if they failed to accomplish all the material things they hoped for in behalf of their country, may return home with the satisfaction of having greatly increased the respect and confidence of the American people in their government. Whatever political detractors may say of them at home, the invisible value of their visit and conduct is very large indeed.

WASHINGTON.

We wish frequently that it were possible to ascertain the present sentiments of George Washington regarding certain matters under discussion. If there was a means of spirit communication whereby questions might be referred to him for opinion it would help to end many controversies.

So many persons are wont to shed crocodile tears for Washington when a decision or aim of the government promises to go against their political or personal interests. They are continually calling upon the name of Washington to justify their tactics of obstruction to progress, to support their interference with policies conceived and urged in the public interest as that interest is affected by current problems.

Washington was a great and good man, intellectually and in the other qualities of statesmanship ahead of his generation. He was far-sighted, wise, judicious, patriotic. He was deeply sensitive of the splendid and immortal foundation of a great nation which he helped to law.

But Washington was never the pendant, never the immovable, arbitrary stand-patter which political fakers of the present often try to make him appear to have been. Washington's first and abiding love was America. He never dodged an issue where the interest of America was involved. His vision was straight ahead and his mind moved forward.

Were Washington conscious of what is being anticipated in his name today he probably would be pained to find that something he said 120 years ago should be interpreted as a restraint against promoting his country's interest of the present. Americans may confidently believe that Washington would let no precedent stand in the way of preserving America's position as a leader among nations in all that is best of human life and government.

"Japan plans to scrap twenty-four warships," This is the tenor of the news now—destroying, not building, warships.

There is something cynical about forcibly feeding a man so that he may live until the date set for his hanging.

Every few days they bury a man who believed what the bootlegger told him.

NEED FOR BALANCED TRADE.

Prediction that American exports this year would amount to more than $5,000,000,000, the cheery guess of the Department of Commerce, comes to saying that they will be little if any less than the exports of 1921. The total that year was $6,000,000,000 (in round numbers), but price drops would make the 1922 estimate probably not far short of the 1921 volume.

When measured in imports our trade with Europe has lately been relatively small. We bought from that continent last year $27,000,000 worth of goods, only slightly more than we bought from Asia, and but three-fourths as much as we received from Canada, Cuba and Mexico.

While we have got from Europe less than a third of our total imports, we have sold to Europe more than half of our total exports. Of the $6,500,000,000 of our goods marketed abroad Europe took $3,400,000,000. Thus the balance in our favor due from Europe reached the enormous figure of $2,271,000,000 last year. This is represented partly by shipment of gold to this country, partly by credits advanced to European merchants.

We now possess between 40 and 50 per cent of all the gold in use and, on the whole, we don't want any more. Some say we want less. The Federal Reserve Board has spoken about the need of redistributing the gold if European currencies are to be stabilized and trade to regain its normal fluidity. After all, who supplies the goods to defray the makers of our exports to Europe, if the Europeans do not?

Our balance with other parts of the world is more nearly even. With Asia the balance was opposite to Europe. That continent sold to us $3,16,000,000 worth of goods and bought $3,547,000,000. North American countries sent us $1,207,000,000 and took in exchange $1,348,000,000. South America received in American goods $322,000,000 and shipped to this country $485,000,000.

Our Hollywood correspondent seems to have fallen by the wayside. "I am lost in an impenetrable forest of grills and quizzes," he writes, "but I shall write myself out."

Miss Ruth Harwood, resident of Oakland, appears in the March issue of "Poetry" with three poems, entitled, "The Shoe Factory," "Always and Always" and "Making Little Clothes." The second named reads:

"Always and always

In the silver morning,
Out to greet some new friend,
With my arms laden with friendship gifts
And a hundred little songs of gladness on my lips.

Walpole Finds Melville.

(From Hugh Walpole's "Young England.")

"Millie took the book that was nearest her, opened it and read page after page without seeing the words, then a sentence caught her.

"Nor is it altogether the remembrance of her cathedral stopping earthquakes; nor the stampede of her frantic seas; nor the tearlessness of arid skies that never rain—"What was this queer book—she read on—

"The murmuring of the wonderful prose consoled her, lulled her. She read on and on. What a strange book. What was it about? It did not matter about the sea—

"What are you reading, Millie?" She looked back to the cover.

"What a name!"

Thus even in the romance of his young Londoners Walpole brings in a figure of whom the literary world is becoming more and more fond.

Clarence Allander is having more trouble than anybody. First his potatoe froze, then his water system went out of commission and when he undertook to pump water by hand Jack McGuire's bull came along and drank it faster than Clarence could pump, then he made a wooden pulley to put on his Lizzie to run the pump jack and in boring the holes he put a nice ½-inch hole through the bottom of a new half bushel. And so it goes, one darned thing after another. Later: Jim Emma ran over his pup with his Dodge.

THE CORNER STONE.

AMERICAN REPUBLIC

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Commissioner of Health, New York City.

We must not fail to establish the relative importance of the various methods and agencies used in studying disease. The so-called "instruments of precision" are precise, each in its own field, but in the absence of full knowledge of all the other necessary records and symptoms you may be misled most easily in your conclusions. Never take for granted that one kind of observation tells the whole story. Nowhere is it so true that "a little learning is a dangerous thing" as it is in medicine.

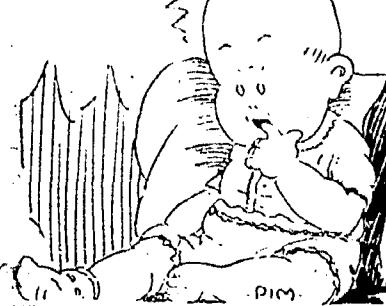

Until the condition of elimination of the nerve function, of the heart, the kidneys and the other organs is known you can form no reliable conclusions as to the real state of the health of any individual.

What is more, new ideas are being advanced all the time. It is plain to me that a generation from now we shall have at our disposal means for determining the significance of health conditions far beyond all we know at present.

Ten or twelve years ago a doctor friend of mine read a paper on the effects of barometric pressure on health. He happens to be an engineer graduate as well, and an amateur yachtsman. One experience made him an observant student of physics and physical phenomena. The other made him study the barometer as a guide to weather conditions.

Fake Robbery of Jewelry Alleged By Prisoner

Holdup Was Hoax to Collect Insurance, Says Man of Plot; Names Woman.

LONG BRANCH, N. J., Feb. 22.—(By the Associated Press)—Alleging police say that he was paid $1000 by Mrs. Sarah H. Robertson to stage the "holdup" in her home at Deal, last Saturday night, in which she claimed to have been robbed of a bandbag containing $50,000 in jewelry, John Bally, 29, was arrested here on a charge of conspiracy. Police authorities announced they were sending to Asbury Park for a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Robertson.

The bag supposed to contain the jewels, Bally said, was in reality filled with white tissue paper and the "jewelry," which Mrs. Robertson's dinner guests had described as a pearl-handled automatic pistol equipped with a "silencer" was actually a pipe case. The bag and its contents and the pipe case were turned over to the local police. Bally declared that he was approached last November by a man, whose name he gave, who told him that Mrs. Robertson would give him $500 to take part in a fake holdup, ostensibly to aid in a scheme for collecting burglary insurance.

He refused.

A week ago Saturday, he told the police, the offer was renewed and the price was increased to $10,000. He accepted and the fake holdup followed.

Mrs. Robertson told the police that she was called to the front door Saturday night while entertaining dinner guests, and there confronted by the "robber," whose face was masked. The man leveled his revolver at her, she said, and ordered her to hold up her hands and keep silent. He tore a diamond ring from her thumb, she asserted, and with his weapon pressed against her body, forced her to return to the dining room.

BOND ISSUE FOR PARK IS BOARD'S PLAN

Nine Proposals for Purchase of Property to Be Put on Next Available Ballot, Decision of Strat Vote Taken

A project for the acquisition of undeveloped hill and canyon property so that Oakland may keep its parks will go upon the ballot at the next opportunity for a city bond election.

This was decided informally yesterday by the board of park directors as the final result of the series of questionnaires sent to all the civic improvement and social clubs in Oakland, inviting them to give their views on the advisability of purchasing any or all of some 24 sites. The answers were varying, but for some of the larger tracts nearly all the clubs were unanimously in favor.

The park projects which the board decided upon and which will be incorporated into the bond election project are the following:

1—Redwood peak. Three pieces of land in Contra Costa county, 162.32 acres.

2—The Haven's grove of redwoods. Forested area of 375.01 acres, adjoining Joaquin Miller park, one of the best natural redwood groves in Northern California.

3—Dimond Canyon, 173.25 acres of river-bottom, partially wooded.

4—Shepherd Creek Canyon, near the Oakland & Antioch tunnel, 412 acres.

5—A park at Rock Ridge, 12 acres, at Brookdale and Golden Gate avenues.

6—A park opposite Technical High school, land between Mather and Whittemore, facing Broadway.

7—Metzernoth property on West Seventh street, corner Seventh and Center.

8—Spring property on Fruitvale avenue, seven acres.

9—Heron ranch on Foothill boulevard, well forested tract of 98.40 acres also desirable for an auto park.

It is planned that the nine projects may go on the ballot separately so that each may be voted upon, but as the election is still far away no final decision is being made yet.

The park board also sent a reply to H. A. Greene of the Monterey Tree Growing Club, who has offered arrangements of the Souvenir Planting in Oakland provided they be well cared for, and suggesting that they be used as monuments.

The park board accepts the trees and says it will care for them. The rest of the matter, it is admitted, is now up to the Monterey Tree Growing Club.

The park board completed its session with a eulogy to the park poem.

MASONIC DRAMA TO BE PRESENTED

Hasty Marriages Deployed by Speaker

Marriage licenses should be obtained and published at least two weeks before the ceremony, according to George D. Baird of Alameda, who addressed the education section of the Public Welfare League this week. The speaker deplored the practice of hasty marriages and termed it a "disgrace" to have a woman married over with the innumerable of a few words. Baird offered amendments to the existing marriage laws which would require a two-weeks' notice of intention to wed as a means of preventing hasty marriages.

Ministers who perform midnight weddings for strangers whom they have never seen before were criticized by Baird.

Mrs. Helen Sweet Artieda, executive secretary of the Public Welfare League, reported to the meeting the activities of the organization.

PETERSEN'S CASE AGAIN IS DELAYED BY SERVICE BOARD

Two Members to Await the Appointment of Third Before Hearing Evidence.

The Oakland civil service board could decide the Petersen case with its present two members, but it will probably wait for the appointment of a third member lest the present two members disagree and the whole case would have to be gone over again.

This decision, in effect, was reached last night by Commissioners John F. Chambers and Sophus Nelson after receipt of a communication from the city attorney saying that these two members can act in the matter "provided the testimony is fully heard." That is to say, a decision can be reached without a third commissioner if Chambers and Nelson can agree.

"We had better have a third member," says Chambers. "Otherwise the case may be in worse condition than at present."

Both members admitted that the

Alameda Council Praises Tribune Fight on Division

ALAMEDA, Feb. 22.—The Oakland TRIBUNE was strongly commended for its recent victorious fight against county division by the Alameda City Council, in a resolution adopted at the meeting of that body last night. The resolution was as follows:

Whereas, The Oakland TRIBUNE, thereby preserving its independence,

Was vitally interested in the defeat of the scheme;

Now, therefore, voicing hereby the prevailing sentiment of the people of the city of Alameda, pointing out the huge expenses to which the taxpayers would be subjected by reason of the elections compelled to be held and the loss of legislative and commercial influence which would surely follow, and that, even if the scheme should succeed at the polls, no real benefit would ensue to the city of Oakland, while all parts of the county would be thrown into disastrous governmental confusion; and

Resolved, By this council at its first meeting held since the last mentioned election, that the thanks of the city of Alameda be and are conveyed to The Oakland TRIBUNE and its publisher, Joseph R. Knowland, for their rendition of a real public service in giving their valuable and powerful aid to help defeat the division scheme, and that Mr. Knowland be and is highly complimented on the clever, courteous, and dignified methods adopted by him during the two election campaigns, not only in the columns of The TRIBUNE, but also in the forceful and convincing addresses which he personally delivered in all parts of the county, thoroughly and the board had almost reached a position where a decision was imminent.

GROUND IS BROKEN FOR NEW SCHOOL

Ground was broken yesterday for the new $155,000 Lockwood junior high school.

The institution, which will care for the educational needs of southeast Oakland and of Melrose, starts construction with this formality and in six months or so the outlines of the big building are expected to be visible.

It is admitted that perhaps the school will be ready for occupancy at the post-vacation semester.

President Harry Boyle of the board of education, turned the first trowel and then handed the instrument to little Jessie Cooley of the fourth grade, who turned the second bit of soil on behalf of the 335 pupils of Lockwood school. A program was then staged by the students.

A motion picture firm has persuaded the pupils to raise the money for the benefit of the movies.

SPEEDER ARRESTED.

ALAMEDA, Feb. 22.—F. J. Collier, of 1243 Sherman street, accountant, came at too fast a rate of speed through Oakdale. He was arrested last night on complaint of J. A. Morrison, constable. Bail had been set at $10 by Judge W. H. Rice of Modesto and Collier placed this amount with the local police.

ENGINE

"Uncle Wiggly! Oh, Uncle Wiggly! Come on over to my house and play!" called a voice outside the hollow stump bungalow of the bunny rabbit boy's home one morning.

"Who? Who is it?" asked Mr. Longears, who had just finished his morning shave. "Do you want to go out in the snow and pretend that it is sugar?" went on the little wiggly, as he sprinkled a bit of cummin on his pink, twinkling nose.

Why Do We Run to Fires and Accidents?

At the whistle of a fire engine or the boming of the fire bell we all rush to windows and sometimes drop, twist our hats and coats and run to the fire. At the slightest indication received by some one than an accident has happened, a crowd congregates. The more serious the incident, the more unmanageable the crowd.

Curiosity, some call it. A natural desire to help, according to others. Curiosity, but hardly a desire to help. For the mere announcement of a calamity in the daily paper causes us to read that part of it first. If there was any kindness in the curiosity that draws us to the scene of the excitement or which impels us to devour headlines, what would our attitude be when the tire is simply torn off and thrown away.

We are in competition with every other human being and we try to believe or to expect the worst. We feel another's loss is "ours" we feel more kindly that we are "up". Fires, accidents, scandals, gossip, are all things which diminish in some way those they touch and leave us relatively more powerful, wealthier, healthier, superior in some simple, cheap, effortless fashion.

Holding a Husband of Adele Garrison's New Diary
REVELATIONS OF A WIFE ~

"Yes, your ladyship. No, your ladyship. Isn't there something more we can offer your ladyship?" he mocked when we were once more headed for the hospital. "They certainly do the subservient courtesy act up," Brownie said.

"How much per cent do you suppose they tack on to the cost of each article for the 'thank you, Miss' stuff?"

"Enough, I fancy," I returned, "although that white ruffled curtain material was not exorbitant in price, but quite reasonable indeed. Let me move five yards to each window, and in the front doorway, there are three."

"For the love of Mike, also Pete!" Dickie exploded. "Can the mental arithmetic when I run around? You ordered seventy yards, you must have had some idea of how much you wanted."

"I have," I returned with dignity. "I was simply checking up my estimate."

"Well, you must be doing it for the fun of the thing," he retorted. "For I never knew you to make a mistake in your arithmetic before. So cut it out. Do you suppose that sawbones has really arrived? I hope I didn't hurt that child."

"YOU MAY COME IN NOW!"

The exclamation came explosively from his lips, and I glimpsed the very real terror that he had been masking beneath his coarse exterior. With the memory of Dr. Pettit's chiding dictation that he could not tell the extent of the injury until he had seen the doctor, I did not dare give any assurance to Dickie, knowing that he would in all probability resent my attempting to give him any. Yet he would be equally resentful of silence, so I answered non-committally:

"I can't believe that you hurt her, Dickie. You raised her very tenderly. 'I'll be the frenemy,' said Floppy. 'What can I be?' asked Squeakie Squealer, the littlest pig of all. 'Oh, you can ring the bell,' answered Curly. 'And what will Uncle Wiggly be?' squeaked Squealer wanted to know."

"Uncle Wiggly can be a passenger and sit in a seat behind the steam engine," said Floppy. "The conductor will take his ticket."

"This sounds like lots of fun," said Uncle Wiggly, with a laugh. "But where is the steam engine?"

"Oh, it's just that I don't believe one."

"I'll be the frenemy," said Floppy.

"What can I be?" asked Squeakie Squealer, the littlest pig of all.

"Oh, you can ring the bell," answered Curly.

"And what will Uncle Wiggly be?" squeaked Squealer wanted to know.

"Uncle Wiggly is a good game," said Uncle Wiggly. "We'll play it."

The chairs were placed in a row near the stove. Floppy rattled the even door to pretend he was the fireman putting out the fire. "Get out, get out," he cried as the engineer, and Squeakie Squealer cried "ding-dong!" as real as anything. Uncle Wiggly was just wondering who was going to be the conductor to the train when suddenly the front door opened and in came the Fuzzy Fox.

"Is Uncle Wiggly here?" barked the Fox. "Yes, I see he is," howled the bad chap. "I'm going to nibble him."

"Oh, Mother! Come and nibble the bad Fox!" cried Skuekie.

"Pooh! Your mother has gone out."

"That's why I came," mumbled the Fuzzy Fox. "I'd like to nibble him."

"And now for some car nibbling!"

"But just then the tea kettle on the stove sent out a big puff of real steam, and Floppy, banzai, he did not run away with the Fuzzy Fox. "Ding-dong!" so loudly that the Fox howled: "Oh, wow! A steamengine is coming! I'd better get away before it comes!"

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the Fuzzy.

"A play steam engine is of course safe, even if it has no wheels except chair legs!"

Winfred Black's Column

HERE IS A WOMAN.

There she sat in the judge's seat in one of the great national commissions, dignified, calm, handsome—the best type of American woman.

She wore a simple dress simply made, but very smart and most becoming. It was opened a bit at the throat and there was a line of soft lace just visible.

Her hair was done in the simple knot so that the shape of her beautiful head was plainly to be seen.

She had a writing-pad in front of her and a pen in her hand, and now and then as she took notes on the evidence she was hearing, her pretty hand, well kept and dainty, was a pretty sight to see.

They looked up to her and believed in her and came to her for help—the simple folk who were paying too much rent for a small apartment and hadn't enough money in the house and didn't know just what to do about it.

She listened to their stories with kindly sympathy—for she, too, once lived in a little apartment and attended to set the landlord for fear he would raise the rent. And she knew what it meant when the little woman in rusty black whispered to her that her husband was dead—not long—not long—her eyes filled as she said it, though she tried ever so bravely to keep back the tears. And there was special need just now, she whispered, for all the money she could save. There was one little boy already, and perhaps soon—

NOT SO LONG AGO.

"I know, I know," said the woman who sat on the commission, and she did know, and she cared, and the little woman in rusty black was some-again until we reached the hospital.

Outside Marion's door we came upon Robert Savarin pacing up and down, his hands gripped tightly together behind him. But as soon as he saw Dickie's face he came forward and put his hand on the younger man's shoulder.

"Don't distress yourself, old chap," he said kindly. "I do not think your action made the slightest difference with Marion's injuries. She was quite herself again after you left. I am pleased with her now, making a thorough examination of her back, so we may know the truth at any minute now."

"Thank you, Savarin," Dickie's hand went out gratefully to that of the elder man, and then the door opened and Miss Jones stepped into the hall.

"You may come in now," she said briskly, and we all filed into the room where Dr. Pettit was standing by Marion's bed with his stethoscope professional manner upon him.

WHAT DICKY ASKED.

The child had tiny drops of perspiration upon her forehead, and her face was pale, proofs of the pain she had suffered. My eyes went swiftly to Lillian's face, for I knew I should find the truth there. She was again kneeling by Marion's side, with the child's hands in hers, but her eyes, while full of sympathy for her child's pain, had lost their look of terror.

"It's all right," she said, quickly, and I knew that she could not bear to let us know what Dr. Pettit's shown assurances. "Please tell them, doctor, what you have told me."

"There is no permanent injury, I am sure," Dr. Pettit said. "There are several bad bruises upon the muscles of her back, one especially painful which will keep her quiet for a few days, possibly longer. She could be moved to the place where you are boarding if her mother insists upon it, but I think it better for her to stay here for a week."

Women's Clubs To Celebrate Arbor Day

By EDNA B. KINARD.
Arbor Day in California has been named for Tuesday, March 7, the anniversary of the birth of Luther Burbank. The California Federation of Women's Clubs is supporting a general plan for observing the occasion, and is urging the planting of trees to beautify parks and avenues and also to serve as memorials to the soldiers dead. Many of the groups have now turned their attention to tree planting, particularly in the rural districts, have set aside the day for formal ceremonies.

Clubs are invited by Mrs. W. A. Fitzgerald, state president, to prepare programs appropriate to Arbor Day to be presented at the open meeting nearest that date. Particular honor will be paid to Burbank, whom California claims as a resident. Local organizations are falling into line, arranging group or section celebrations for that date.

Mrs. Clarence M. Haring of Berkeley has taken over the duties as chairman of the education department of the California Federation of Women's Clubs, in addition to her work as corresponding secretary. She is filling the position made vacant through the resignation of Mrs. Frederick T. Robson, who has so efficiently carried forward the work. Mrs. Robson until a few years ago was numbered with the prominent clubwomen of the college city. Agriculture lured her husband and herself to the Stanford ranch at Vina, Tehama county. She has been a frequent visitor to the East Bay cities, and been claimed as an Alameda district representative by the state board. That the vacancy was caused by her retirement from the federation department has been filled by another local leader is an announcement of interest to the club world.

"America's Place in World Politics" will be discussed tomorrow afternoon by Dr. Rudolph Coffee, before the members and guests of Berkeley Center, California Civic League of Women Voters. The center meets in Unity Hall at 2:30 p. m. The public is invited to attend. Miss Martha Iiams will be chairman of the day.

The anniversary of the birth of George Washington was celebrated today at commemorative exercises held at the statue of the first president of the United States in the Palace of Fine Arts in San Francisco.

Limerick Contest Is Won by Roland Calder; Club Dance Plans Made.

A humorous program was featured at the luncheon of the Oakland Ad club at the Hotel Oakland yesterday. A short Washington anniversary program was held before the humorous address of Max Horwinsky. Horwinsky's address was on "Psychonanalysis" in which he used as his subjects various members of the club. Much interest was displayed in the limerick contest which followed the address. The contest, in which all members of the club participated, consisted of jingles told by the participants of their greatest desire on ambitions or some special qualification of the products which they represented. The prize for the best jingle was won by Roland Calder.

Previous to the program the unemployment situation was presented to the club by Herbert Johnson who spoke of the action being taken by the club in conjunction with other organizations to relieve the situ-

BIG LANDSLIDE BURES TRACKS

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 22.—What is declared to be the worst landslide in many years in the Cajon Pass has buried the west bound track of the Santa Fe Railroad Company between Cajon and Summit, where an eighth of a mile of track was covered, in some places to a depth of 30 feet. # DODGE BROTHERS' DEALER HAS BEEN APPOINTED HERE

Rumor Says James McAllister
Is Given Sales Rights on Coveted Line.

A definite announcement is expected tomorrow giving the name of the new Dodge Brothers' motor car distributor in San Francisco and Alameda counties. He has been selected already by J. E. French, director of distribution, but the news won't be released until confirmation comes from the Dodge Brothers' factory on Thursday.

Those who are close to the ear of French think that James McAllister has already secured the franchise and that was the gossip yesterday around the San Francisco salesrooms of H. O. Harrison.

McAllister has been managing the Fresno branch of the Harrison organization until a few days ago. McAllister's father, until the latter's death, were partners in the H. O. Harrison Co. This financial interest was preserved until a settlement was made by Harrison during the present month, the result of which gave Harrison complete control of the firm.

It is believed that McAllister will open a branch in Oakland for the direct distribution of the Dodge Brothers line on this side of the bay.

Because of the supposedly numerous applicants for the line and the rigid requirements sought from a distributor by the Dodge Brothers, there naturally has been a lot of speculative gossip in motor car circles concerning the probable dealer in the San Francisco bay cities.

L. A. RACES ARE POSTPONED.

A dozen or more Oakland racing fans will have a chance to do a lot of sight seeing in and around Los Angeles because of the postponement of the automobile races from today (Wednesday) until Sunday.

Monday afternoon there was an exodus headed southward of motorists in the cities about the bay. Monday night the Beverly speakers announced that the track was too thoroughly soaked from the unusual but constant rainfall that has drenched Southern California, and no chances could be taken with the weather scheduled for today.

Those who left this section for Los Angeles arrived in the south before they got the news and the majority, though disappointed, are staying over until Sunday.

Sixteen cars are entered for the 250-mile classic and a purse of $25,000 will be divided among the contestants. The winner will get $10,000, second money totals $6000 and the remaining scalars down to a $400 consolation award.

Nineteen of the sixteen cars bear the Duesenberg label, three are Frontenacs and the remaining five include Milton's Durant Special, a Ballot, Fiat, Leach and De Lago.

By holding the event over until Sunday there will be additional crowds from the bay cities, many of whom will go down on either the Owl or the Lark Saturday night and return on the Lark Monday night.

Last Rites Tomorrow For Mrs. Covert

Last rites will be said for Mrs. Mary Kendall Covert, Oakland pioneer resident, tomorrow at 1 p.m. at the receiving vault in Mountain View cemetery. Mrs. Covert died on Sunday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. S. Abbott, in Los Angeles. Funeral services were held this morning on Monday afternoon, the body having been brought to Oakland for interment.

Although for the past 20 years Mrs. Covert has resided in Los Angeles, formerly she was well known in the Eastbay cities. Her death followed an illness of several weeks. She was the daughter of the late Mrs. Rebecca Ann Kendall, California pioneer. Besides her daughter, Mrs. Abbott, with whom Mrs. Covert has made her home, she is survived by a sister, Mrs. Harriet Emma King, of this city.

Mrs. Abbott arrived in Oakland yesterday.

GENERAL BUNDY IN S. F. ON WAY TO ISLAND POST

Visitor Famed for Heroism in France to Command in Philippines.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—Major-General Omar Bundy, U. S. A., who has been assigned to command the Philippine division is at the St. Francis hotel en route to take over his new post. He was in command of the seventh army corps, with headquarters at Fort Crook, Nebraska.

As divisional commander General Bundy directed the operations near Chateau Thierry in which the first American troops participated on the western front as a separate unit of command. It is credited with being the American general who, having stopped the offensive onslaught of the Germans, made a counter attack

In reply to the French general, General Bundy, after conferring with officers of his staff and in command of his regiments, sent the following message:

"We regret being unable on this occasion to follow the counsels of our masters, the French, but the American flag has been forced to maintain its colors. This is an impossible position. Some of our soldiers would understand their not being asked to do whatever is necessary to re-establish a situation that is humiliating to us and unacceptable to our country's honor."

"We are going to counter attack." Was this counter attack that was declared to have written history in the war book of France. In some of the hottest fighting in the war, when the Germans fought desperately to maintain the ground that had been wrested from the French, General Bundy's troops delivered what has since been characterized as the most bitter and determined attack of the war. And as the sun went down that evening there began the retreat of the German forces that lasted until November 11.

Smith was told of the occurrence by the girl's mother shortly after the men had left the neighborhood. He picked up the trail and the chase began. In the meanwhile the city police were notified. Smith captured the men at Twenty-first and Peralta streets.

According to the story told by the girl to Inspectors Thomas Pardes and Louis Kersh, she noticed the two men following her while on the way home from school. When she hurriedly she hurried, and she was unable to lose them.

When she arrived home, she told her mother, who said she saw the men writing down the address of the house. She phoned the police immediately, but before their arrival saw the deputy sheriff and enlisted his assistance.

The girl told the officers that a week ago the same two men followed her home.

The men claimed any knowledge of the affair to the police. They said they were both sailors on a vessel docked in San Francisco. Their ball was fired at $500 each instead of the usual $25 for a disturbing the peace charge, and they will be arraigned tomorrow morning.

BITE OF LARGE INSECT NEARLY FATAL TO WOMAN

Attacked in her sleep by an insect which hospital authorities believe may have been a tarantula, Mrs. F. C. Street, 45, of 1804 Ellis street, is recovering today from an injury which narrowly escaped being fatal.

Mrs. Street, who was unconscious when she was taken to the Emergency Hospital, was admitted to the hospital application of antiseptics usually reserved for the victims of poisonous snake bites.

According to F. C. Street, who rushed her to the hospital, he was awakened by a scream from his wife. A quick investigation, he said, revealed an animal as large and woolly as a tarantula but having the form of an enormous flea, clinging viciously to his wife's left ankle. Before he could act it leaped away, he reported, and disappeared in the darkness. At the hospital it was discovered that Mrs. Street's ankle was swollen to several times normal size, and that she was in a serious condition.

The girl, and a description of this man—wants him bad. We can prove he assisted in looting his bank. Hundreds of depositors were ruined. "It appears, however, that in California when a man like this is wanted—a rich man with power—the case is called kidnapping. But when a poor man, who has stolen a few dollars, is wanted, they call it extradition."

Lindenberg's attorneys were equally determined to make a fight of it.

"It is necessary, we will go to the Supreme Court to protect our rights," declared Edwin McKenzie of Lindenberg's counsel.

LADY GLEICHEN OF ENGLAND IS DEAD

LONDON, Feb. 22 (By the Associated Press).—Lady Fedora Gleichen died in St. James Palace today. It was because of her illness that parties given by the King and Queen in honor of Princess Mary's coming wedding were transferred to Buckingham palace.

The death is officially stated that the death will not cause any alteration in the wedding plans.

Lady Fedora was unmarried and the daughter of the late Admiral Prince Victor of Hohenlohe-Langenburg. She attained considerable success as a sculptor and painter.

Lindenberg's attorneys were equally determined to make a fight of it.

"It is necessary, we will go to the Supreme Court to protect our rights," declared Edwin McKenzie of Lindenberg's counsel.

REGISTRATION AT SAN JOSE BREAKS RECORDS

SAN JOSE, Feb. 22.—More than three times more citizens have placed their names on the register of voters to date than at the same date last registration, according to information given out today by Registrar Frank Hogan. More than 12,000 are now registered, he stated.

Hogan declared that by the time of the city election in early May the total number of registered voters will nearly double that of last year.

Registration for participation in the municipal election ends April 1, according to Hogan, while that for the county election will close July 22.

The registrar anticipates a record breaking registration for the county election this fall.

Lindenberg's attorneys were equally determined to make a fight of it.

French to Honor War Dogs With Large Monument

PARIS, Feb. 22.—(By Associated Press).—The war dogs of France may have a monument erected in their honor. The idea has been generally approved because everyone recalls the great service these dumb creatures rendered.

Ten thousand of them hauled machine guns, while hundreds served as despatch runners and sentries. Some were even classed as telephone operators. These were highly trained dogs taught to patrol with a small telephone instrument on their backs, attached to a wire connected with the trenches. The bark of a dog would warn the sentry of any trouble. An entire regiment was saved in this manner by one dog.

MEMBERS OF OAKLAND REVOLVER CLUB MAKE A RECORD SCORE

CHICAGO CUBS ARE FIGURING ON HACK MILLER AS ONE OF THE REGULAR OUTFIELDERS

SLUGGER EXPECTED TO MAKE GOOD WITH THE CHEWING GUM OUTFIT

Hod Eller May Prove a Puzzle to the Coast League Heavy Hitters.

By BOB SHAND

"Hack" Miller, mighty slugger of the Oaks, joins the Chicago Cubs Saturday at Catalina Island, and "Hack" says he is going to do more than join the Cubs—he is going to STICK with them. Some kind friend in Chicago sent his "Hacklets" the dimensions of the ball yard used by the Wrigley outfit and "Hack" discovered that there is a very short right field fence. That's where he is going to aim for, and unless there is better pitching in the National League than there was last year a whole lot of balls are going to be lost over that fence.

"Get tough." That was the advice dealt to Miller yesterday by a friend who has watched him closely for several years. It seems strange advice to give a ballplayer as most of them need taming down. But this big Miller boy is different from any ballplayer that ever cavorted in this league. He is all together too good-natured. There is also no fear in him. Give Miller the disposition of Bill Lizard and he would be a riot in the big tent.

When Hack drops a fly ball or lets one go through him or should he strike out or hoist a puny fly in the pinch he worries for hours and sometimes days. If a customer chirps something nasty about the play the incident will remain with the slugger for a week. If Hack was not so self-conscious, what a whale of a player he would be!

Miller's nature was never better illustrated than in a certain game he played with the Oaks. In one inning he saved the pitcher's life three times, twice by backing up against the fence and grabbing off liners and the other time by rushing in and picking one off the top of the daisies. In the following inning a batter crashed one to Hack's territory that was good for three bags if it landed safely. Miller made a desperate effort to get that ball, but got away from him. The catcher turned on Hack and hawled him out in full view of the audience, and Hack took it instead of telling the beaver where to head in.

Hack loves baseball—next to his home. When the ball game has been played and the stakes have been disposed of you won't find Miller hanging around cigar stores or billiard parlors. When the club is at home Hack beats it for his little bungalow, where all the kids in the neighborhood are waiting for him. He will play ball with the kids, or sometimes just sit on the deck and then invite the gang to his home, where he will entertain them with his guitar. And take it from one who knows, this Miller boy can tickle the strings considerable. That's the Miller disposition. Give him a little of the "Go-get-'em" spirit and convince him that it is no disgrace to err once in a while, and you'll have a rival for Babe Ruth.

Hack will be groomed for a permanent job with the Cubs and he is already being figured for the clean-up position in the batting order. But should some other star develop and shave his Hacklets off the club he will come back to Oakland if waived out of the majors. When Miller was purchased J. Cal Ewing had a clause inserted in the agreement stating that the player would revert to the Oaks should he fail to stick in the big tent. Cal knew about the chattering going the rounds. He had been tipped off with a pretty girl owning one of the Oaks and Angels. He could strengthen his Coast league outfit by the simple process of weakening his rivals. That's why he insisted on the return clause in the contract.

Establishment Of Refuges to Increase Birds

Wild Birds Are Great Saving to Farmer by Destroying Many Insects.

The work of wild birds in the destruction of injurious insects is worth at least $400,000,000 annually to the American farmer and horticulturist and in recognition of their valuable aid and charm, and to encourage their presence the establishment of community bird refuges throughout the country, on farms, in fruit groves and elsewhere is increasing. Useless suggestions of the establishment and maintenance of community bird refuges are contained in Farmers' Manual, published by the United States Department of Agriculture.

Carl Zamloch, coach of the Champaign club of the Missouri league in 1913, and the following spring was sold to Danville. From Danville he went to Moline, where he favored for two years. The White Sox purchased him in the spring of 1914, but he was released after a brief trial. He joined the army and went into Mexico with General Pershing. He was suspended by Moline, but reinstated the same year. Cincinnati drafted him and he stuck with the Reds for three years.

Eller's best season was in 1919, when, after helping the Reds win the National league pennant, he stepped in and won two games from the Chicago White Sox in the world's series. Hod was not used until the fifth game of the series, but he made good by shutting out the Sox and allowing them but three hits. This made the count four and one in favor of the Reds, but the White Sox came back with two straight victories to make it four and three, and Eller was given the honor of pitching the important eighth game. He won 10 to 5, allowing ten hits. In the first game he fanned nine and in the second six.

Eller and Rutherford figured to be the backbone of the Reds' pitching staff in 1920, but they both fell down. Rutherford failed to take care of himself and was subsequently traded to Brooklyn, but Eller had to retire through no fault of his own. The Reds were willing to give him another trial this spring, but Hod wanted to play on the Coast. He may go up again in 1923 if he succeeds in fooling the P. C. L. slugs.

"NEVER SAY DIE" SHIRT.

Knute Rockne, the football coach attributed his success to the never say die spirit of his athletes. The school authorities, however, give Rockne's unique coaching system credit for the victory. # CALIFORNIA AND STANFORD PLAY HOOP GAME HERE SATURDAY

TRIBUNE LEAGUE TEAMS ARE TUNING UP FOR CHAMPIONSHIP CONTESTS NEXT SUNDAY

CALIFORNIA AWAITS REPLY FROM IDAHO U. FOR TWO GAMES HERE

Stanford and California Meet in Second Game of Series in Auditorium Saturday Night

By DOUG. MONTELL

With the second Stanford-California basketball game but three days distant there is but little talk on the California campus about the big contest—all talk at present being centered around the invitation sent by Graduate Manager Lute Nichols to the University of Idaho late Monday night, to which an answer has not yet been received, inviting the Vandals, leaders and apparent winners of the Pacific Coast Conference, to play the Bruins. Much speculation is going the rounds as to Idaho's probable answer, for while on the face of matters, with the Conference gonfalon won, it is not to be expected as very probable that the northern college will see its way clear to adding two tough games away from home that would likely wreck their chances of winning their first championship in the Big Eight, there is still the chance that Idaho may appear here.

The invitation was so worded that it left it for Idaho to decide whether or not the two games would count in the Conference standing if a decision is made to play. As Coach Wright said, California was unable to arrange her schedule early in the year to meet Idaho at the University of Idaho, the Bruins were in the north, yet the Blue and Gold would like to meet the Vandals on the court andasmuch as Idaho is now leading the conference, a game of some importance would be an excellent attraction in these parts as the grand finale of the local hoop season.

Idaho Series Here Would Be Attraction.

The enthusiasm at the University of California naturally runs high over the proposal to change the name of Stanford athletic teams from "Cardinals" to "Indians." It has been suggested that the question be put up to student body vote, but the matter has never gotten that far.

The Daily Palo Alto, Stanford student newspaper, editorially opposed the change in names in last night's issue. After deplored the "maniac" among colleagues to take different names, the editor says: "The cardinal is spoken of as having adopted the name 'Indians' for its teams. Stanford has been referred to by good many names in the last 30 years. Some of these, such as the Indians, have faded, never again been heard of. Red Shirt has been a name frequently used by the press and has stuck through the stories of Stanford teams."

The Indian, who is the sculptor as contemplated was to be a group featuring an Indian overcoming a grizzly bear. But the allegory is not meant to extend so far as to cause the idea of the Indian status which was expected to be placed on the name of Stanford.

"The woman's movement at Champaign was again abandoned yesterday. The greens committee has decided to close the course from Monday to Friday inclusive. This was done last year, but the course played out on Saturday and enjoyed their one and only game of the week.

A Washington's Birthday tournament is planned for the Diablo members here.

Bill Kenworthy and Judge Landis Are Having Awful Scrap.

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 22.—Following the action of Judge K. M. Kenworthy, baseball commissioner, in suspending the game of Seattle, Kenworthy yesterday said he would not let the game be played Saturday, as the Cardinals had won all six games they were, nevertheless, in hard contests to play, the additional Southern California series using up that much more time. The U. S. C. Cardinal boosters have expended since the first meeting of the two clubs.

Harvey Wing Expected To Be the Referee.

Stanford and California are always a big box office attraction, whether it be football, track, billiards, ping-pong or marching. The two institutions go at each other with hammer and tongs and there are always sufficient matters in dispute to make the competition keen. Last night the board definitely decided who will officiate at the Stanford-California game Saturday night, although, according to Coach Wright of California yesterday, the officials will probably go. Of all the officials on the Stanford side, Kearns, who officiated at the first game; Hollander, who worked in the Washington State series, and Evans, who worked in the Oregon and U. S. C. games, are also under consideration, but Wing is declared to be the choice agreed upon by the two coaches and that will probably go. Of all the officials in the three games, Evans and Hollander have been the biggest favorites. Evans had a slight argument with the U. S. C. players in the second game at California, but his work in the first game was extremely satisfactory. Hollander also has done some excellent officiating, while Kearns, somewhat lax in calling a large number of fouls, has proved himself to be one of the big three of the referees of this section.

Andy Smith of the New Stadium.

Andy Smith had a few words to say yesterday regarding the proposed California stadium. The matter has been held up in the meantime because the Board of Regents announced recently that the double deck type of concrete structure, proposed just off the college grounds, was to be abandoned. The students strongly oppose many of the plans, which were strongly opposed, not only to the location, but to the type of structure. Since the Stanford stadium was constructed that type has met with general approval. California is worried over the Washington University crew, which is reported to be very strong, and which has been in the water since January 1. Captain Dan MacMillan's preliminary lineup for the stadium boat is said to be as follows:

Bow: Griffin; No. 2, Peacock; No. 3, Howell; No. 4, Simi; No. 5, Williams;

6, Session; No. 7, Brown; stroke: Jacobson; coxswain: Helling.

Preparations are being made for the race at Seattle on April 22. The winner of the race will be sent East to represent the Pacific coast in the Poughkeepsie regatta.

located there, will have the work of construction finished in time for the March 15 regatta. If such is the case, the work will be completed in time for the 1922 Stanford-California game to be held at California instead of down the Peninsula for the second time in as many years.

Card and Bear Freshmen Meet Again Tonight

Second Game of First-Year Hoop Series to Be Played On Farm.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Feb. 22.—The Stanford freshman basketball team is ready for the second game with the California first year quintet on the local court tonight. Coach Duffy Seay has been giving the man work since the first game, and with the Bruins' Friday night and they should be in the best of shape tonight.

It is likely that Coach Seay will use the same line-up tonight as in the first contest of the "little big series." This means that Alexander and Hoffman will start at forward. These men are both fast and accurate, and are expected to give the Bruins plenty of trouble. If either of these men become disabled during the fray Seay will have Hooper and Driscoll, another good pair of offensive men, to fall back on.

Seay will start at center again with Middleton and Logan as reserve material.

SHIPLEY AT GUARD.

Harry Shipley will likely play the point guard position again, with Oliva standing guard under the Stanford basket.

The Cardinal fresh have a good chance to defeat the Bruins tonight if they do their best work as they did in their first contest. Several members of the squad have a tendency to try long shots instead of the passing game, and if Seay has made good use of his men, this team stands a good chance to win.

Gene Vace Gent is putting his varsity squad through their final practices this week for the first game of the annual Stanford-California series, which is scheduled for the Oakland Auditorium Saturday night.

Bob Janssen, who was out of the first Oregon game due to an appendicitis, will be available again, though he was not big enough attractions to be classed as a keen collegiate basketball. The breaks of the Pacific Coast Conference schedule in the Oregon region helped the strong teams of the coast this year, at present in third place, one notch ahead of the Bruins, off the California schedule entirely, and the Blue and Gold are in the lead.

The Daily Palo Alto, Stanford student newspaper, editorially opposed the change in names in last night's issue. After deplored the "maniac" among colleagues to take different names, the editor says:

"The Indians' arises probably from the idea of the Indian status which was expected to be placed on the name of Stanford teams."

When the College completes the subscription of $650,000, a fair portion of which is pledged already, the General Education Board of New York will give $350,000 to make the balance of the first million.

The Board's offer, which has stood for some time, expires shortly and the total of subscriptions must be raised at once to $650,000 in order to claim the Board's contribution. Otherwise, $350,000 is lost not only to Mills College but the Bay Cities, California, the whole West.

All of this first million dollars will be permanently invested, the income derived to hold and augment the already underpaid and overtaxed teaching staff of Mills College, the only woman's college west of the Mississippi River and one of the finest in the country.

TRACE IS SOUGHT OF RELATIVES OF SHIP SUICIDE

Effort Is Made to Locate the Friends of Mrs. Hills, Who Leaped From Liner.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 22.—Efforts were made today by police and newspaper officials to locate relatives of Mrs. Alice M. Hills of Amherst, Mass., who was drowned late Monday afternoon when she jumped from the deck of the liner Bayview State when the vessel was 200 miles south of San Pedro. News of the tragedy was received here yesterday in radio messages.

The belief is held that Mrs. Hills' two sisters may be en route to Honolulu. They had been en route from with Mrs. Hills while she was guest in a Pasadena hotel in December.

WAITER IS SUICIDE

Harold Holloman, colored waiter, plunged into the sea and was drowned a short time after Mrs. Hills ended her life. Neither body was recovered.

According to information in the possession of those investigating Mrs. Hills' death, the woman had given up her family of being unbalanced mentally.

A record of Mrs. Hills' past movements was established at the Mission Inn, Riverside, where the woman and her two sisters were guests for a few days. They left Riverside in the latter part of December. It generally was understood that the three women planned a trip to Honolulu.

From all indications, however, Mrs. Hills booked passage on the Bayview State for Baltimore, while her two sisters went to Honolulu as had been planned originally.

WAS WIDOW

The Bayview State, operated by the Matson Navigation Company, is bound for Baltimore, where it will be turned back to the United States Shipping board.

According to news dispatches from Amherst, Mrs. Hills was the widow of the late L. Dwight Hills, who died at Amherst in 1917. Her family was prominent socially. She usually remained in Amherst, except during the summer, according to the message, which added that "during the war Mrs. Hills had made three trips abroad, once for the Red Cross and once for the Y. M. C. A. Her mother resides at St. Armand, Canada.

Accused of Murders, Tries to Kill Self

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22.—Suffering from the delusion that his wife wanted him to join her in hell, Peter Oscar Thompson, accused of two murders, attempted to commit suicide in his cell in the county jail here today by repeatedly smashing his head against the iron bars.

W. A. Bringhurst, alleged murderer and a cell mate of Thompson, was attracted by the noise, overpowered the man and saved his life.

Before or After Taking?

A well-dressed party, who was far overtaken in alcoholic stimulant, stumbled into a restaurant, slumped into a handy chair at a table and gave unmistakable evidence that he was about to enjoy a refreshing slumber. A waitress shook him by the arm.

"What is it you want?" she asked.
"Dearie," he said drowsily, "what have you?"

"Almost anything in the food line."
"Ver' well, then," he said, "bring me almost anything in the food line."

"How about a nice salad?" she asked, on a venture.

"That'd be lovely, dearie," he assented. "Glad you thought of it—shows you get a good mind—quick thinker, everything like that. Bring me nice salad."

"What sort of a salad?"
"That, dearie, I leave to your superior judgment," he said. "You been here longer than I have. All right, then, you nominate the salad."

The girl went away, returning presently with a bowl of hearts of lettuce and sliced tomatoes, with an abundance of Russian dressing poured over the combination. The patron was now sound asleep. She slipped the order past his elbow and left it there where his eyes would fall upon it when he opened them.

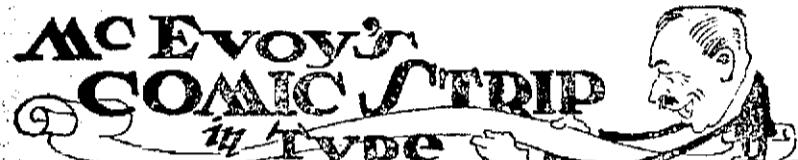

Presently he did open his eyes. As though spellbound he contemplated that which confronted him. He took a fork and gently he stirred the contents of the bowl. Then with his free hand he beckoned the young woman to his side.

"Dearie," he said, "drunk or sober or drinking, as is the case at present, my aim is ever to be a gen'man. Far be it from me to do anything which would bring reproach upon me as a gen'man or upon the fair and unsullied name of this noble establishment. But, dearie, in justish to all concerned, it becomes ne'eray for me to ask you a queshun."

"What's your question?" she said snappily.

"Well," he said, "I drift off in slumber. I wake up and right here under my nose I find this." And again with his fork he daintily agitated a frond of dressing-soaked lettuce. "So, therefore, dearie, the queshun is as follows: DO I eat this—or DID I?"

Modern Version: Marry in haste and repeat at leisure. Cannes, however, is less significant than German cant's.

Commerce: Interchange of merchandise on a large scale. Obsolete.

Hint to Stout Men: A divorce suit always makes a man seem very small.

A nation usually takes something when it has an acute attack of national aspirations.

At times the difference between earth and heaven is only the thickness of a brake lining.

"Wit is at its best when compressed into a short sentence." However, there's nothing particularly funny about "Ten days."

However, just because a thing is against the law, it doesn't follow that it is up against it.

There are two kinds of wives: Unhappy ones and those who believe everything their husbands say.

Every normal married man feels a little bit sorry for the poor spinsters who can't get a man like him.

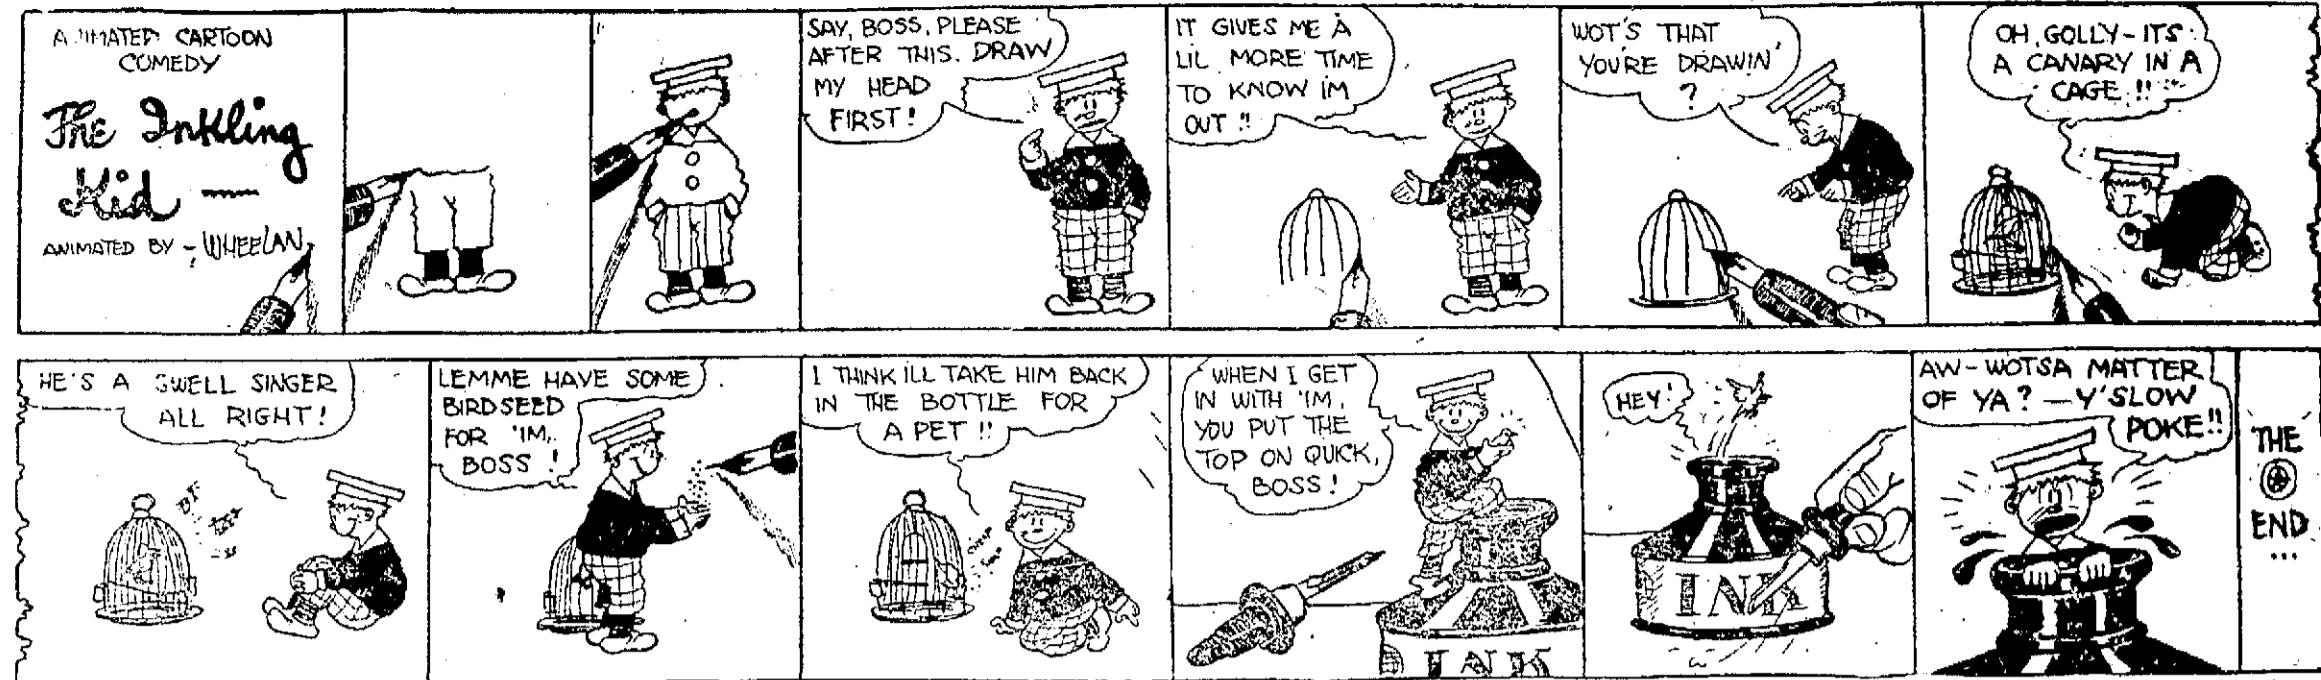

It is only a question of time until some ribald critic will call Poincaré the bonehead of contention.

We are heartily in favor of this hands-across-the-sea stuff so long as our own crowd keeps the upper hand.

What are the wild waves saying? Well, if they're crime waves, they are probably saying: "Ain't we got fun?"

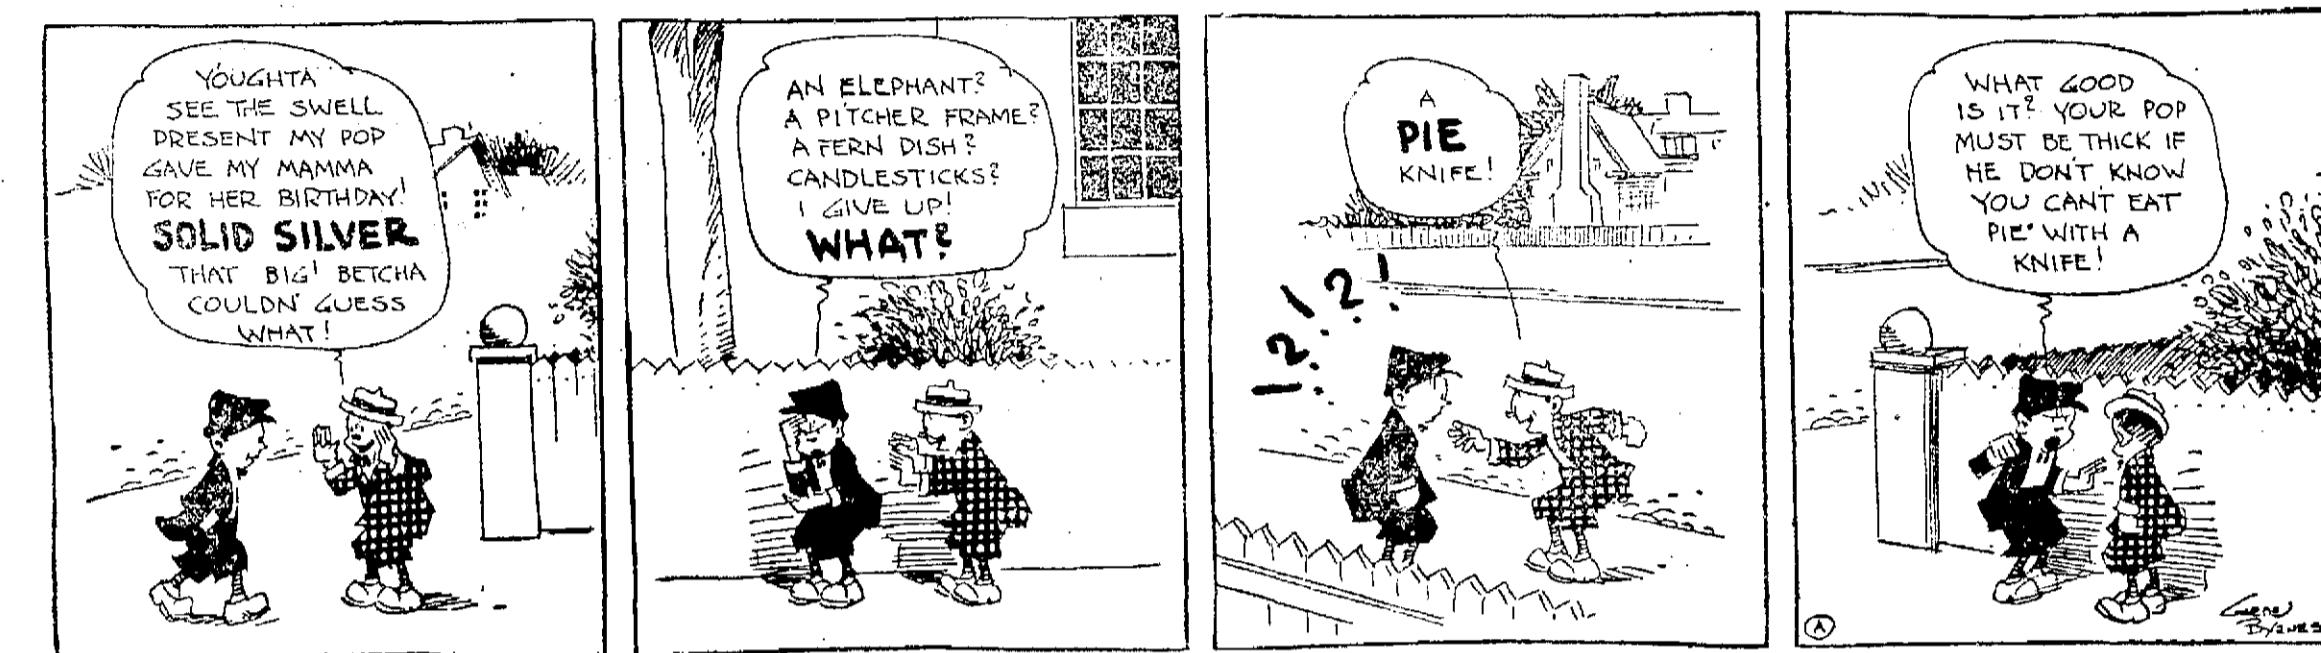

Sometimes, however, the tender touch of a woman's hand is a legal tender touch.

MERCHANTS BACK
CAUSEWAY BRIDGE TO GOAT ISLAND

Exchange Adopts Resolution Asking All Officials to Support Project.

Declaring indorsement of the plan to link up Goat Island with the mainland by causeway-bridge, the Oakland Merchants' Exchange last night adopted a resolution urging the Governor, members of the Legislature and California representatives in Washington to support the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways' application for authority to make the improvements contemplated.

The resolution made a particular point of the fact that the proposed project would mean a cut in ten minutes in traveling time between Oakland and San Francisco and calls attention to the great benefit to the entire bay region which would result from the establishment on the island of a union terminal for all railroads.

The linking up of Goat Island with the mainland would also prove a tremendous forward step toward solution of the ultimate problem of bridging the bay by tube or span, it is further pointed out in the resolution, which follows:

Whereas, the proposed extension by the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways of the "key" system to Goat Island by a causeway-bridge would mean a cut of some ten minutes in traveling time between Oakland and San Francisco, and

Whereas, the proposed project includes as the chief feature the establishment of a great union terminal on the island for the use of transcontinental and other railroads as well as the accommodation of vehicular traffic; and

Whereas, the proposed contemplated linking up of Goat Island with the mainland would prove a tremendous forward step toward solution of the ultimate problem of bridging the bay by tube or span; therefore be it

Resolved, that the Merchants' Exchange of Oakland is heartily in favor of the Goat Island project and unanimously urges Governor William D. Stephens, members of the Legislature and California representatives in Washington to appeal to the Federal government for favorable action on the application of the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways, presented to this session of Congress seeking authority to make the improvements contemplated.

Route Changes Made In Lincoln Highway

HAYWARD, Feb. 22.—The Lincoln Highway was today officially routed. Instead of skirting the business districts of San Leandro and Hayward as heretofore the official highway signs will guide tourists through the business districts of the two towns. The highway will follow East Fourteenth street and Castro avenue to B street, out the Dublin road to the Sacramento valley. The change was brought about through the efforts of J. W. Wallace of the Lincoln Highway Association, and H. R. Robinson, local consul for the association.

250 Leaders in Civic Affairs in Berkeley Are Present At Annual Banquet Held by Chamber of Commerce

Few Women Attend, Thought It Is First Time They Have Had Permission.

BERKELEY, Feb. 22.—About 250 leaders in civic affairs gathered last night at the Hotel Whitecotton for the annual dinner of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce.

Despite the fact that the dinner lists were opened to women for the first time in the history of the organization, only a score or more of them were present. Women's interests were represented on the program, however, and women alternated with men as honor guests at the speakers' table.

President Wells Drury of the Chamber of Commerce filled the role of toastmaster, introducing as the principal speaker of the evening Judge Curtis Wilbur of the United States supreme court, whose subject, in keeping with today's holiday, was "Washington's Ideas and Their Relation to the Disarmament Conference." Other speakers were Mayor Louis Bartlett, Max Thelen, chairman of the forum committee of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. John F. Johnston representing the women's motion picture committee of the same body. Music interspersed the dinner and speaking program.

CITY OF YOUTH

"Berkeley is the youngest city in proportion to population in the United States," Drury told the diners.

We have here 10,000 university students, 12,000 pupils in our schools and goodness only knows how many babies. I defy anyone to take away our youth from us!"

Because of the youth represented in Berkeley both Drury and Mayor Bartlett declared that college city must lead the way in progressive enterprises.

"Thousands of persons are attracted to Berkeley because it is the primary business of our community to take care of the needs of children," said the mayor. "We have more children per thousand in our schools here than any other city in the state and we must raise money to care for them adequately."

Mayor Bartlett urged that the "burden" taxation taken from the home" and placed on new business and commercial values yet to be created. He urged an adequate system of main arteries leading to questionable films and asked further co-operation in the work of the committee which she represents.

Judge Wilbur declared in his address that the same ideals that held the fathers of the revolution to their cause strengthened the purpose of the United States at the disarmament conference.

ESSENTIAL TO PEACE

"We have accomplished on international affairs what every town and hamlet recognizes as essential to peace," he said.

"We have made it unlawful to carry concealed weapons. We have determined what was reasonable in the way of naval armament and have agreed to confine ourselves to that. We have made war less probable by agreements on vital points of dispute, and have made it certain that no war of world conquest can ever be waged. Armaments are limited to those deemed necessary to defend the country, indicated to subjugate a first-class power. Germany expected to capture Paris in three weeks. When that time passed her opportunity faded. France and England and Russia had increasing opportunity to mobilize. Wars may not cease as the result of disarmament. Men may still fight with fists and women with fingernails, but the result will not be fatal to national life."

"The torch of liberty brought to these shores by the Pilgrim fathers, kept alight by Washington and his soldiers, civil and military, by Lincoln and his soldiers, by Wilson and our soldiers, today enlightens the world. The world is safe for democracy today, because Washington and Lincoln loved freedom and cherished democracy. We can say to the boys of England and France and Italy and of our other allies who fought to end war, in the war against war, that we see in the Washington conference for the first time in human history, a pledge of the strongest nations on earth to avoid war, and cease to consider it as a means of settling international disagreements."

ACKNOWLEDGED LEADER.

"That in this effort America is the acknowledged leader is a matter not only for self-congratulation, but also for profound self-examination. World leadership, whether sought for convenience, unscrupulousness, or with ill burdens such as rested upon the shoulders of Washington and Lincoln. May we bear this burden as well as they did, and deserve the grateful praise of men as they did for unwavering and unflinching devotion to the principles of freedom and equality. May we be spared the enmity and vituperation from which they suffered, but if not, let us proceed as they did with calm devotion to the final goal—the brotherhood of men, made brothers by the common fatherhood of God."

A musical program was given. Orchestral selections were played throughout the evening, while Mrs. Gilbert Moyle, soprano, was heard in a group of songs. Also as an important part of the program was the California Quartet, consisting of Hugo Williams, tenor; Carl Anderson, second tenor; Lowell Redfield, baritone, and Henry Perry, basso. The quartet was heard in three groups of songs and was enthusiastically encored. The audience joined in singing "America."

GUESTS AT DINNER.

As guests at the speakers' table were Mr. and Mrs. Wells Drury, Judge Curtis Wilbur, Mayor Louis Bartlett, Dr. Benjamin Ide Wheeler, Professor Elwood Mead, Mrs. Jos. Mills, Blanks Everett, representing Oakland Chamber of Commerce; Judge and Mrs. William H. Waste, Roy O. Long, vice-president Berkeley Chamber of Commerce, and several others.

Other guests at the dinner included Harry R. Knowles, E. F. Loudock, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Howard, L. P. Whitney, W. J. Mortimer, W. S. Wood,

WOODEN HULLS
MAY BE USED IN LUMBER TRAFFIC

Ships Built at Close of War to Be Taken Over After Purchase From U. S.

A part of the fleet of wooden hulls which is anchored off the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation's yards on the estuary is to be put in the carrying trade as a result of a sale by the Emergency Fleet corporation at Washington of seventy-five wooden vessels to Robert J. MacGahen of San Francisco, for $125,000.

The hulls, empty and most of them without machinery, loom up like great arks in an imposing row off the Alameda plant of the shipbuilding company. They were built for war service, and were towed here for the installation of engines. When the addition was signed work on them was stopped as soon as it became evident that they had been inhabited only by sailors, men and bats. Some few have stacks and engines but others are shells.

MacGahen, an attorney in the Mills building, believed to be representing other interests, has purchased hulls in Alameda and in Lake Union, near Seattle. While he has made no announcement it is believed that they will be put in the lumber carrying trade as barges and that the deal indicates an awakening interest in this line.

MILLINERY CLASS DISBANDS.

SAN LEANDRO, Feb. 22.—San Leandro's millinery class, located at the Berkeley school, is temporarily disbanded owing to the sudden sick-leave of Miss N. Burroughs, instructor.

The class was progressive rapidly, according to attending women of this city, and the attendance was growing with each weekly meeting. It is expected that it will be several weeks before the instructor will be able to resume her duties.

CELEBRATIONS COMBINED.

Oakland High school and Techical High school also celebrated Washington's birthday with special programs today.

The schools of the city were given the alternative of combining their Lincoln and Washington celebrations or holding separate celebrations.

Many of the schools preferred to hold both a Lincoln celebration and a Washington's birthday.

The programs have been given at the various schools from February 8 up to the present date.

A feature of the observance of Washington's birthday is the special program being given this week in honor of Washington by the Sons and Daughters of Washington.

A special study of Washington's some time.
